PRELIMINARY STATEMENT.

THE College will be opened in the first week of October, 1831, both in the Senior and Junior Departments.

The Proprietors are entitled in respect of each Donation of 50l. and upwards, or of each Share, to nominate one Student in the School or Junior Department, (the particulars of which will be found in p. 16,) and one Student, either for general education, or for medical education, in the College or Senior Department.

The Students received into the College or Senior Department will be of three different descriptions; namely,

1. KING'S COLLEGE STUDENTS, admitted to a regular and prescribed course of general study; but allowed to attend any particular lectures not comprised in that course.

2. KING'S COLLEGE MEDICAL STUDENTS.

3. OCCASIONAL STUDENTS, admitted to attendance at one or more courses of lectures.

KING'S COLLEGE STUDENTS.

The prescribed Course of Education will embrace,

Religious and moral instruction, in conformity with the principles of the Established Church;

The Greek and Latin Classics;

Mathematics;

English Literature and Composition; History, and Logic.

TERMS.—The Matriculation Fee, to be paid by every College Student upon his admission, will be 1*l.* 1*s.*

For the year's course, of which the half-yearly expense must be paid in advance, the fee to be paid by every College Student,

If nominated by a Proprietor, will be.....£ 21 0s.

If not so nominated£ 26 5s.

For any particular Lectures, not comprised in the regular course, the student will pay the prescribed fee, as hereinafter stated.

THE ACADEMICAL YEAR will consist of Three Terms.

The first Term will extend from the beginning of October to the week before Christmas; the second, from the middle of January to the week before Easter; and the third, from Easter to the end of June or beginning of July.

ATTENDANCE AT PRAYERS.—The duties of the day will commence with Prayers in the Chapel, at a quarter before Ten o'clock, when the attendance of the College students will be required.

INSTRUCTION.—The daily course of public instruction will occupy about five hours; and a record of the attendance of each student will be kept.

ADMISSION OF STUDENTS.—Previously to the admission of students into the College, the Principal will enquire into their attainments and former conduct; and, except in cases of remarkable proficiency, of which he will be the judge, students will not be admitted under the age of Sixteen years. All the Students will be required, before they shall enter the College, to subscribe a declaration that they will strictly abide by such Rules and Regulations as the Council shall lay down for the good government of the College, so far as the same may affect the students in attendance on the regular courses or otherwise.

PUBLIC EXAMINATION.—There will be annually a public examination and distribution of prizes.

KING'S COLLEGE MEDICAL STUDENTS.

IN establishing a School of Medicine and Surgery in King's College, the Council have been influenced by the belief, that many individuals, who intend their sons for the medical profession, will gladly embrace an opportunity of placing them in connexion with an Institution, which has for its principal object to educate the rising generation in the doctrines of Christianity, as taught by the Established Church, and to fix in their minds the true principles of morality. They believe, likewise, that every one who has the welfare of society at heart, and who has considered the most effectual means of promoting it, will feel an especial interest in the success of this part of their undertaking; under the conviction, that the duties which devolve upon the medical profession are such as to render the religious and moral character of its members not less important, than their practical and scientific attainments.

The Council are indeed aware that the great majority of medical students, during the time of their residence in the metropolis, have so many demands on their attention within the limits of their own peculiar pursuits, as to leave them but little leisure for other branches of study. They expect, however, that all, who belong to the class of King's College Students of Medicine and Surgery, will be regular in their attendance at Divine Worship in the College Chapel on Sundays in the forenoon; and they hope that the Students may be able to avail themselves, to a certain extent at least, of the opportunities of Religious instruction offered by the Lectures of the Principal.

The Council earnestly recommend, that those, who have it in their power, should devote themselves for some time to the General Studies of the College before they enter upon that course of instruction, which is more exclusively professional.

Those who are desirous of attending the Medical and Surgical Lectures at King's College, will have the option of entering either as King's College Medical Students, to go through a fixed course of professional study, the duration of which will be two Academical Years; or as Occasional Pupils, to attend the lectures of particular professors.

The course of study, which King's College Medical Students are expected to follow, will comprise all those subjects, a knowledge of which, attested by certificates of attendance upon lectures, is required by the College of Surgeons and by the Society of Apothecaries as a condition of obtaining their respective diplomas.

King's College Students will have the exclusive privilege of competing for prizes, which will be offered annually for superior proficiency in the subjects of the Lectures.

Special certificates, in addition to those which relate to medical proficiency, will be given for general correctness and propriety of conduct in the College, and for regularity of attendance at Divine Service; also to those Students who shall have attended the Lectures on religious and moral subjects, and shall be found to have profited by them.

THE TERMS OF ATTENDANCE UPON THE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL LECTURES ARE AS FOLLOWS :

N. B.—The King's College Medical Students will pay the Matriculation Fee of 1*l.* 1*s.* upon their admission.

The Lectures on Surgery will be continued in one course through the whole Academical Year, which, for Medical Students, will extend from October to the middle of May; upon each of the other subjects which have been enumerated, two courses will be delivered during the year. The first course will begin on the first Monday in October 1831; the second on or about the 24th of January following.

The lectures upon Forensic Medicine will not commence till October, 1832.

There will be attached to the College a Museum and a Library, to which, under proper regulations, the students will have access.

The entire course of study, which the King's College Medical Students are expected to attend, will comprise the following Lectures, of which the terms are annexed:—

The payments for attendance, as King's College Medical Students, may be made either at once, or in the following manner:—viz. half the sum at the commencement of the first Year; and the remainder at the commencement of the second.

OCCASIONAL STUDENTS.

Students of this description will, under the sanction of the Principal, and subject to such regulations as the Council shall from time to time prescribe, be admitted to attend any particular course or courses of Lectures, upon payment in advance of the respective fees, but they will not be entitled to compete for the prizes.

Accommodation will be provided in the Chapel for all the students of this class.

LECTURES.

The following is a Statement of the Lectures, which will be delivered in the College, (exclusive of those connected with the Medical profession,) and of the Fees for attendance, so far as they have been fixed.—

THEOLOGY.—The Principal will commence a course of Lectures on Theology in the early part of October, and will continue them twice a week during every Term. These lectures will embrace the Evidences of Natural and Revealed Religion, and the Doctrines and Duties of Christianity, in conformity with the principles of the Established Church; and they will be open to Students of every description without payment of any fee.

CLASSICAL LITERATURE.—J. ANSTICE, Esq. B.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, will commence a Morning Course of Lectures in October next, and will continue them every day in the week during each Term. They will embrace such Greek and Latin authors as are usually made the subjects of instruction in the higher departments of Schools and in the Universities: but the order in which the Lectures will be read will depend upon the number and qualifications of the pupils.

The fee payable by Occasional Students will be 4*l.* 4*s.* for each of the Three Terms; or 10*l.* 10*s.* if the Student shall enter for the whole year.

MATHEMATICS.—The REV. T. G. HALL, M.A. of Magdalen College, Cambridge, will commence a Morning Course of Lectures early in October next, and will continue them every day in the week during each Term. They will embrace all the branches of the Mathematics, usually taught in the Universities, and will follow in the order which may be found most expedient.

The fee payable by Occasional Students will be 4*l.* 4*s.* for each of the Three Terms; or 10*l.* 10*s.* if the Student shall enter for the whole year.

ENGLISH LITERATURE, &c.—The Lectures in this department will be given through the whole of each Term by Professors ANSTICE and HALL, and will embrace the several branches of English Literature, History, and Logic.

The fee payable by Occasional Students for the Lectures in this department, in each of the Three Terms, will be 4*l.* 4*s.*; or 10*l.* 10*s.* if the Student shall enter for the whole year.

NATURAL AND EXPERIMENTAL PHILOSOPHY. — The REV. H. MOSELEY, M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, will commence a Course of Lectures in this department. Timely notice of the subjects and periods of delivery, and of the fee for the same, will be given.

JURISPRUDENCE.—J. J. PARK, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, will, in November next, commence an evening course of Nine Lectures on “Constitutional Law and the Theory of the Constitution,” and will continue them twice a week during that month. The fee for the Course will be 1*l*.

In December, Professor Park will begin an Evening Course of weekly Lectures on “The Political Elements of Law, or Positive Law ;” and in the same month another Evening Course on “The Technical Elements of Law, or Scientific Law.” The fee for each course (which will occupy the remainder of the Academical Year), will be 2*l*.

The fee for attendance on the several Courses will be 4*l*. 4*s*. if the Student shall enter for the whole year.

POLITICAL ECONOMY.—NASSAU W. SENIOR, Esq. M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford, will, at the commencement of the Third Term, begin an Afternoon Course of Ten Lectures, to be continued once a week, on “Political Economy.” The fee for this course will be 1*l*. 1*s*.

COMMERCE.—JOSEPH LOWE, Esq. will, in November next, commence an Evening weekly Course of Lectures on “The History and present State of Commerce.” The fee for this course, which will extend through four months, will be 2*l*. 2*s*.

N.B. Mr. Lowe will be in daily attendance at the College to give private instruction, where required, in the principles and practice of Commerce.

GEOLOGY.—CHARLES LYELL, Esq. F.R.S. and F.G.S., will, at the commencement of the Third Term, begin an Afternoon Course of Lectures, to be continued once a week, on the science of Geology. The fee for this course, which will consist of Twelve Lectures, and be accompanied by suitable illustrations, will be 1*l.* 8*s.*

NATURAL HISTORY.—JAMES RENNIE, Esq. M. A. will, in November next, begin an Afternoon Course of Twelve popular Lectures on “The Habits of Animals,” and will continue them once a week. These Lectures will be succeeded by similar Courses on other branches of Natural History; but no charge will be made to the regular King’s College Students for attendance upon them. The fee for each course will be 1*l.* 1*s.*

CHEMISTRY.—J. F. DANIELL, Esq. F.R.S. will begin a course of Lectures in this department on the first Tuesday in October. The Terms of this course will be found at pages 8 and 9.

FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.—PROFESSOR VENTOUILLAC will, in November next, begin an afternoon Course of Eighteen Lectures on “The History of French Literature” and will continue the same once a week during the First and Second Terms.

The fee for this course will be 1*l.* 8*s.*

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.—PROFESSOR BERNAYS will, in November next, begin an afternoon course of Eighteen Lectures on “The History and Development of German Literature,” and will continue the same once a week during the First and Second Terms.

The fee for this course will be 1*l.* 8*s.*

ITALIAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.—PROFESSOR ROSSETTI will, in November next, begin an afternoon course of Eighteen Lectures on "Italian Literature," and will continue the same once a week during the First and Second Terms.

The fee for this course will be 1*l.* 8*s.*

SPANISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.—PROFESSOR DE MENDIBIL, LL.B. will, in November next, begin an afternoon course of Eighteen Lectures, affording a view of "The History of Spanish Literature," and will continue the same once a week during the First and Second Terms.

The fee for this course will be 1*l.* 8*s.*

* * * The Professors of the four preceding languages will likewise begin, in November, courses of private instruction in their several departments, and will continue them twice a week during the whole Academical Year. The fee for attendance on each of these courses will be 4*l.* 4*s.*

Future notice will be given of the Lectures on Hebrew, the Oriental Languages, &c.

A more detailed statement of the several Courses of Lectures will be shortly published ; as well as of the arrangements which have been made for the lodging and boarding of such Students as possess no home in London.

N.B.—Rooms for Refreshment, under proper regulations, will be attached to each department.

Any further information, as well as forms for nominating Students, may be had on application at the office of the College, No. 2, Parliament-street, Westminster.

King's College School.

The Rev. J. R. MAJOR, A.M. Trin. Coll. Camb. HEAD MASTER.

The Rev. JOSEPH EDWARDS, B.A. St. John's Coll. Camb. SECOND MASTER.

THE course of Education will comprise Religious and Moral instruction, in conformity with the principles of the Established Church; the Greek, Latin, and French languages; Writing, Arithmetic, and elementary Mathematics; History and Geography, ancient and modern; and English composition. Opportunities will be afforded of receiving instruction, when required, in other branches, for which, however, an additional charge will be made.

The Entrance Fee is one Guinea, and the terms for pupils are Fifteen Guineas annually, if nominated by a Proprietor; and Eighteen Guineas if not so nominated. These terms include every expense, excepting that of books and stationery, which will be supplied at reduced prices.

The half-yearly payments are to be made in advance.

The general age for admission will be Nine years and upwards.

The hours of attendance will be from Nine till Three, from Michaelmas to Lady-day, and from Nine till Four during the remainder of the year, with a proper interval for refreshment; except on Saturdays, when the School will close at One o'clock.

No pupil will be allowed to absent himself from Prayers, with which the duties of each day will commence.

The Vacations will consist of six weeks in August and September, one month at Christmas, and ten days at Easter.

Pupils will not be allowed to leave the School before the day appointed for the commencement of any vacation; and they will be expected to return punctually on the day with which it shall close.

There will be annually a public Examination, and distribution of Prizes.

A Register will be kept at the College of the attendance, proficiency, and general conduct of the pupils; from which register reports will be made at stated periods to their parents or guardians.

Arrangements are made for the reception of a certain number of pupils in the Masters' houses, upon terms, and under regulations, sanctioned by the Council.

The School will be opened in October next.

July 1831.
